TREASURERSHIP COST MOST MONEY

County Candidates who Have Filed their Expense Accounts Show that More Money was Spent for that Office than Any Other.

According to the statements filed by the candidates for the various county offices it is more expensive to run for the post of county treasurer than for any other county office. Brady M. Sefton, elected to that office, filed his statement some time ago and showed that he had spent $729.60 in his campaign. E. P. Wisotzky, his Democratic opponent, has now filed his account and in it he tells of expenses amounting to $108.45.

His assessment to the Democratic County Committee was $200, he spent $38 for automobile hire, $60 for advertising, $25.25 for horse hire, and $50.25 for printing, and $35.00 for personal expenses.

G. Harry Roth, elected prothonotary by a majority of two, spent $385.60, of which $200.00 was his assessment by the Republican county committee, $119.12 went for printing and advertising, $22 for postage and envelopes, $28.75 for automobile and team hire, and $24.75 for personal expenses.

John C. Bollinger spent, in his unsuccessful campaign for the office of sheriff, $292.13, of which $180 was donated to the Democratic county committee and $118.88 went for personal expenses. The small balance went for advertising and printing.

J. Carra Smith, defeated Republican candidate for county commissioner, on Saturday filed his account which showed expenditures of $135.29, of which $100.00 was paid to the Republican county committee, $20.00 for advertising, and $15.29 for personal expenses.

W. J. Chrismer, defeated for the office of register and recorder, spent $255.60, $200 going to the Democratic county committee, $29.00 for traveling expenses and the remainder for advertising and printing.

The candidates for president judge have not yet filed.

DR. BARKLEY'S FINAL SERMON

In the presence of an audience which filled Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Dr. T. J. Barkley, beloved pastor of the congregation for the past thirty one years, on Sunday morning delivered his farewell sermon. The "talk without a text," as Dr. Barkley called it, was so typical of his devout and earnest life, his deep feeling and love for his people, that it came as a most fitting close to his long career as a pastor. He said in part:

"I do not know how a farmer may feel when he ploughs his last furrow. I do not know how a lawyer may feel when he prepares his last brief, or with what feelings a merchant may lay down his yard-stick for the last time, but I do know that the giving up of my active work in the Christian ministry has had a most peculiar effect upon me. This last week has been a hard one for me and I have lain awake at night thinking of it. It is the severance of a relationship existing between you and me for over thirty years.

"I think of this congregation largely as having connected themselves with the church since I became its pastor. I think of the work, the concern, the care, and the anxiety connected with my pastorate here. But all work of that kind has a peculiar sort of joy. As you have knelt before God's altar there has been for me, for the congregation, an inexpressible joy, not of a material sort, but a joy on a higher, a spiritual plane.

"I have no heart to go into statistics this morning. I know, though, that, whereas the congregation numbered 235 when I came here, the last report indicates a membership of about 400. I think of the many children I have baptized. I do not know how many, but they make a long list. I think of the many confirmations, the marriages, and the long, long list of deaths.

"My relation to you as a congregation has been a most tender one. I have been in your sick rooms, administering to your sick and dying people, oh, how often in all these years I have been with you at other times when all was joy and gladness in your hearts. In all these times I have felt that I was one with you; so I have carried you along in my heart.

"It has been almost a paternal relation for I have felt toward you as a father does toward his children, desirous always for your welfare. I hope you may continue to cherish this during your coming days.

"During these thirty years I have gone among you quietly, preaching and ministering to you as best I could. To-day I lay down the shepherd's staff. Before long it will be taken up by another. Do not think for a moment that you are bound to what I have done. He may have better ideas about some things than I. Take the man who succeeds me into your hearts, into your lives. Treat him well.

"I feel that in all this time we have worked together one with another. We have mingled our joys and our sorrows. You have helped me in the way and so I lay down the shepherd's staff, not in grief, for I know it is the right thing to do. I hope it will be taken up by some one who will carry it forward with greater efficiency and that you may work with him to greater religious zeal and achievement.

"That is my hope and my prayer, and with it I bid you a most affectionate and fond farewell."

There were many moist eyes in the congregation as Dr. Barkley concluded his sermon, so typical of the long and faithful life which he has spent among them. Most fittingly the service came to a close with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie that Binds." The pulpit will be filled by ministers from various towns and cities until Dr. Barkley's successor is chosen.

A number of persons have agreed to contribute sums of money toward the entertainment of the visitors, the list of those who are helping in this way being as follows: Pen and Sword Society, I. L. Taylor, Dr. A. E. Wagner, Dr. E. S. Breidenbaugh, Mrs. A. C. Musselman, H. C. Picking, Mrs. Oliver Benner, J. Elmer Musselman, Miss Artzberger, H. A. Crouse, Mrs. Helen Keith, Dr. L. A. Parsons, J. ## WEEK'S SLOGAN IS "KEEP WORKING"

Schools that Win the Prizes will not be Three Names ahead of Losers. One Extra Name may Mean $50. Work and Win.

Renewed effort among the working schools is going to produce results this week that were not counted upon in The Times subscription plan. A notable feature of the past week's contest was to have some schools that were not expected to do very much bob up with more subscribers than those whose territory would naturally give them an opportunity to be among the winners.

The slogan this week is, "Send in the subscribers." Do not sit still and think you cannot get any more. Get them and send the names into the office promptly. There is nothing to gain by holding them back, but it will facilitate the work to have them in as soon as possible.

Some school is simply going to walk away with the $50 prize by putting forth a little extra effort. As we told last week, no one district will have any large number of new people. The division of the territory will not permit it. If two or three extra subscribers would have given you the first prize you will feel badly about having lost it. And that is going to be the exact circumstance. Unless we are much mistaken the winning schools will not have over three names more than those who just lost the prizes.

If you cannot get a subscriber for a year take him for six months or less, but get him somehow. And do not quit when he does not respond immediately. Tell him your school is out to win, that his one subscription may be the means of your winning the prize. It is a small thing to him and a large one for the school.

ANOTHER SET-BACK

Would Have to Undergo Heavy Expense on Berlin Road.

The final abandonment of the project to re-open the East Berlin Railway will follow, it is believed, the ruling of the Public Service Commission on Saturday when they refused to allow them to re-lay the tracks already torn up on the same grade as before. The attitude against grade crossings is responsible for the Commission's refusal, it is thought. As it would be necessary to build trestles or tunnels to avoid the grade crossings it is believed the promoters will now abandon the project.

CLEARED $800

Financial Success Attends Bazaar of Local Congregation.

The bazaar of St. Francis Xavier church which closed Saturday evening was a complete success. The total receipts were between $840 and $845, and the expenses were kept at the minimum so that the net proceeds will be about $800. Rev. Fr. Boyle and the members of the congregation are much gratified over the success of the undertaking.

REPLIES TO MEXICO CRITICS

Administration Denies Sisters Were Outraged.

QUOTES VICAR GENERAL

Secretary Tumulty Says There is Not a Proven Case on Record, Although Many Have Been Investigated.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Important documents designed to combat the charge that the Wilson administration overlooked the offenses of General Carranza against the Catholic church in according him recognition and settling forth in a general way the administration's defense of its Mexican policy were made public at the White House.

The documents consist of letters from President Wilson, Private Secretary Tumulty and ex-Secretary of State Bryan. The most striking feature of the correspondence is an official statement from Very Rev. Antonio J. Paredes, Roman Catholic vicar general of the archdiocese of Mexico City, embodied in Mr. Tumulty's letter denying the charge of the Catholic clergy in this country that Carranza's soldiers.

The vicar general's statement not only denies that Carranza's soldiers, but presents a list of the crimes against Catholic clergy which shows that Carranza's soldiers were no more than as unprovokedly tolerated by Carranza officials as had been represented by ecclesiastics of the United States.

Secretary Tumulty states "There is no official record of a single proven incident of this dastardly crime in the files of the state department," although the consuls and special agents of the United States in Mexico "have diligently investigated reported cases."

With respect to the Carranza soldiers driven from Zacatecas to Vera Cruz and later brought to this country on a ship chartered by the United States, the unfortunate women who figured most largely in the reports of outrages broadcasted through the United States—Secretary Tumulty declares that not one of them told the American army officers who cared for them during their five months' stay at Vera Cruz, that such attacks had been made.

Emphasis was laid on the recognition of Carranza by the Latin-American countries which joined in the Pan-American peace conference. All of these Latin-American countries, Mr. Tumulty pointed out, were Catholic nations.

REPEATS CHARGES

Father Tierney Declares Sisters Were Outraged.

New York, Nov. 29.—Rev. Richard S. Tierney, S. J., editor of America, who was chairman of the committee from the national convention of the American Federation of Catholic societies that protested to President Wilson and former Secretary of State Bryan against the treatment of Catholics in Mexico by the revolutionists, will take issue editorially in his journal for December 4 as to Mr. Tumulty's statement of facts.

Father Tierney says that they are in possession of Mr. Francis C. Kelley, president of the Catholic Church Extension society, and himself two affidavits declaring that sisters were outraged. One of these affidavits, he says, was taken in the presence of an American army officer who signed a name to it. The priest says that he will withhold the name of the army officer, but if the president's secretary desires the names of other attestants, including six sisters, he will send them to him.

Although Mr. Tumulty's letter to Doctor McGuire would seemingly show there is no justification for the widespread criticism of the manner in which Catholic priests and sisters have been treated by the Carranzaists, Father Tierney will say in America that "the spoliation of convents and churches and the persecution of priests and sisters have been going on merrily in Yucatan, the last state invaded by the Carranzaists."

Boy Burned to Death

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 29.—John Leonard, six years old, was found burned in a clump of willow trees beyond Third street bridge, and a short time after he had been admitted to the Delaware hospital he died. The boy was unconscious and the police have been unable to find any witnesses who could tell how his clothing was ignited.

Shoots Wife: Kills Himself

Camden, N. J., Nov. 29.—The body of Frank Schwartz, thirty years old, was taken from the rooming house, 394 Arch street, and his wife, twenty-eight years old, was sent to Cooper hospital. Both were shot in the head. The police believe that the man shot his wife and then himself. The doctors say the woman cannot live.

Gorizia's Fall, Switzerland Report. Geneva, Nov. 29.—Reports received here from Chlissno, on the Swiss Italian border, say that Gorizia has fallen, the Italians having entered the town from the north. There is no official confirmation of the reports.

Optimistic Thought.

GEORGE BERNAD SHAW

World's Peace, He Says, Can Be Obtained in League of Nations.

In a London speech Mr. Shaw says: "I do not believe there can be any peace in the world until there is peace between England, France and Germany. If Great Britain defeated Germany very heavily the latter might try to seek a combination with the United States. In fact, Britain might drive Germany and America into one another's arms by carrying victory too far."

GERMANS END SERB CAMPAIGN

Berlin Announces Opening of Road to Turkey.

London, Nov. 29.—Germany's operations against Serbia have been brought to a close with the occupation of Rudnik, an official statement received here from Berlin says.

This success was attained after an engagement with the Serbian army, the Germans taking 2700 prisoners, together with guns, munitions and supplies. After their defeat the Serbs retreated into the Albanian mountains.

With this success the Germans announce the opening of communications with Bulgaria and the Turkish empire has been accomplished and that no further drives will be directed against the remains of King Peter's army.

The greater portion of what remains of the Serbian northern army is believed to have crossed into the mountains of Albania and Montenegro, where the Serbs are confining, with the aid of King Nicholas' troops and supplies which are reaching them from the Adriatic, to offer stern resistance to the Austro-German and Bulgarian invaders. Like the Belgians, however, the Serbs hold a fringe of their country, which will remain as it reaches the northwestern corner, of which Monastir is the center.

For some time, variously explained, the Bulgarians have halted their march on that city. During the latter part of the week, almost continuous storms compelled the suspension of operations, giving the French and British time to bring up reinforcements, which are being landed at Salonika daily, and consolidate their positions.

BOY OF 7 U. S. CORPORAL

Youngest Sea-Soldier Has Served Two Years in Cuba.

Vallejo, Cal., Nov. 29.—Although his parents didn't raise him to be a soldier, Frederic C. Bradman, Jr., of Mare Island, aged seven years, has twice formally enlisted in the United States Marine Corps and is a corporal in his second "blitz," to use the sea-soldier vernacular.

Corporal Bradman wears a service stripe and a good conduct medal as a reward for excellent service during his first enlistment and also sports a sharpshooter's badge that was won by a mark. The youngest marine has had two years' foreign service in Cuba, which will count as four years toward the thirty years necessary for retirement. And Corporal Bradman says he will re-enlist until he shall have served thirty years.

TWO KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Man and Woman Die When Car Whirls on Curve.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 29.—Losing control of his car which ran up the hill on a sharp curve on the National Pike, seven miles west of here, Milton Dicken, a grocer, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Alice J. Kifer, wife of Frank R. Kifer, a grocer, were killed when the machine was whirled back by the embankment on its side in the middle of the road.

The machine did not turn turtle and was but little damaged, but Dicken's skill was crushed by the frame-work of the top and Mrs. Kifer's neck was broken when her head struck the machine's front end. Mr. Kifer and Mrs. Dicken suffered minor injuries.

FRENCH REPEL VIOLENT ATTACK

DRIVEN BACK TO SHELTER

Desperate Struggle Ends in the Allies' Favor After Bayonet Fighting in Trenches.

Paris, Nov. 29.—Violent bayonet fighting north of the Labyrinth, northern France, Saturday night, ended in victory for the French forces, which drove large bodies of attacking German into retreat from the "No Man's Land" between the opposing lines. The Germans took shelter in the crater caused by the explosion of a mine laid by them.

The French had been expecting this attack for more than a week, their aviators having reported the arrival behind the German positions of a number of battalions of fresh troops. After nightfall Saturday the Kaiser's miners discharged a quantity of high explosive in a tunnel which extended close to the French trenches.

The explosion was the signal for the German infantry to advance. They swarmed from their shelters in full force and raced forward to the outer defenses of the French position, where a desperate hand-to-hand battle was fought.

At the close of the battle the French line was intact, and the Germans took refuge in the ground torn up by their mine explosion.

Ignore Kaiser, Greece Warned

London, Nov. 29.—John's representations of the strongest character were immediately made to King Constantine of Greece by the French, British and Russian envoys at Athens, warning the king that the allies will not agree to any modification of the concessions recently made by the Skoufodis cabinet guaranteeing safety and complete liberty to the allied troops operating in Greek territory.

The entente powers have decided upon a policy of firmness with Greece because of the renewed efforts of Emperor William to dominate the government at Athens and to induce King Constantine to withdraw his assurances that the allied troops would not be mistreated while on Greek soil.

Eighteen Ships, Teuton Told

It is understood the order extends to the prairie provinces as well.

CHURCH BELL AS NUISANCE

Neighbor Objects to Hourly Strike of 40-Pound Hammer.

Trenton, Nov. 29.—The bell that strikes the hour in the belfry of the Mattawan M. E. church is a nuisance according to John Terhune, who lives in the house adjoining, and he has filed a petition with the court of chancery asking that it be silenced.

When he built the house, Terhune says, the church had a bell that called the people to worship. He didn't like it, but decided to submit because the bell was the first. Last February, however, a clock was installed with a bell that clanged out every hour. Terhune says this bell weighs 2650 pounds, is three feet two inches high and four feet in width. The hammer weighs forty pounds. It causes a sound wave, Terhune says, that can be heard from two to three miles and he lives within sixty feet.

SCORE INJURED IN STRIKE RIOTS

Germans Sympathizers and Strike Breakers Clash.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 29.—Wrecking valley was the scene of great disorder when mobs gathered in Wilkes-Barre, Nanticoke, Edwardsville and Plymouth, and partially wrecked several trolley cars, resulting in the injury of a score of people, some of whom are hurt seriously.

Rioting reached its high-water mark throughout the valley and police authorities seemed utterly unable to cope with the situation, making only a few arrests. Volleys of bricks and stones were hurled through car windows, the crews brought here by James Waddell to break the strike on the lines of the Wilkes-Barre railway company dragged from the cars in some instances and pummeled severely by and two of Waddell's chauffeurs were attacked in the central part of the city and probably would have been killed had not guests from a hotel gone to their rescue.

Jim Gaffney and Fred Gilbert, motorman and conductor, cut about head and body in riot in Edwardsville.

George Anderson and Lewis Anderson, chauffeurs in the employ of James Waddell, badly cut about head and body in riot in Wilkes-Barre.

ADMITTS CAVE-IN PERILS

Reading's President Says He Ordered Them to Be Avoided.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 29.—President W. J. Richards, Division Engineer W. H. Seitzinger, Mining Engineer John Hevan and other officials of the Reading Coal & Iron company were witnesses in court against their own company in an important suit for damages brought against the Reading by Henry Barnard, of Ashland, because of surface grave-digging, alleged to have been caused by excavations at the Potts colliery.

Barnard claims that his property in Ashland has depreciated fifty per cent, since it has been undermined and the surface has cracked. President Richards admitted that he got a warning letter from attorneys as to the danger to Ashland property as far back as 1909, but said that even prior to that he gave orders to stop the "robbing" of pillars underneath the town.

Fet Burrows Into Pile and Finds Young Master.

Buried in a sand pile at Flushing, N. Y., Harold, eight-year-old son of Mrs. Adela Schultz, was saved from death, according to the boy's mother, by their pet dog Sport, a fox terrier.

"Harold, with his fourteen-year-old brother Herbert and his five-year-old sister and two companions, went for a walk," said Mrs. Schultz. "The children were romping when Herbert missed Harold."

"After a search of a few minutes Harold's hat was found on a sand pile. The children were attracted to the sand pile by the barking of the dog, which burrowed his way into the sand until one of Harold's feet appeared."

"The children pulled him out of the sand unconscious and carried him home. The boy is all right, but he had a very narrow escape. After he recovered consciousness he explained that the sand caved in upon him."

POISON FOR YOUNG WIFE

York, Pa., Nov. 29.—Taken ill while going with Secretary E. G. Steger, of the Associated Charities to obtain a position, Mrs. Mabel Harvey, aged eighteen years, of Columbia, S. C., admitted that she had swallowed a quantity of bichloride of mercury in an attempt at suicide.

She was hurried to the York hospital, where her condition is reported as grave.

The woman came under the wing of the Associated Charities two weeks ago, when her husband, after a year of perfect married life, as she said, abandoned her, penniless, in a boarding house.

Her explanation of her act was that she was "tired of it all."

AMERICA WANTS GREATEST SHIPS

Daniels to Ask For Two 36,000 Ton Dreadnaughts.

SUGGESTS STEEL EMBARGO.

Companies Selling So Much to Foreign Nations That Needs of Government Cannot Be Fulfilled—To Study Plans of Proposed Vessels More Closely. Wants to Attain Greater Speed.

Pending further investigation of the bids for the two superdreadnaughts, appropriations for which the last congress limited to $7,800,000 each, Secretary of the Navy Daniels is at work on tentative plans for the five year building program which he will propose to the next congress.

Secretary Daniels said that he hoped to include in the first year's part of the five year program two 36,000 ton battleships. There are no larger warships afloat anywhere. The biggest ever designed for the American navy are the 32,000 ton craft of the California class, two of which were authorized last year. It is for these that bids have just been received.

Part of the increased displacement in the newest ships will be due to changed hull construction to provide additional torpedo defense bulkheads. While the general characteristics of the ships have not been disclosed, it is probable they will have increased armament and speed.

The navy has developed a sixteen inch gun of which no use has yet been made, and the new ships may carry ten or more of these if developments of the European war indicate the wisdom of mounting them.

The largest guns now afloat are the fifteen inch guns of European navies, which the fourteen inch American gun is said to equal for all practical purposes.

To Seek Greater Speed. Maximum speed of American battleships now built or authorized is less than twenty-one knots. European first line ships go considerably above that. It is considered probable that a speed of perhaps twenty-five knots will be sought hereafter.

In regard to the two battleships, bids for which Mr. Daniels purposes to study more closely, it is understood that he may decide to build them in government yards. The figures presented by the government yards were well within the limit fixed by congress. The private bids were slightly under the limit, but so many changes in specifications were suggested that in the end the extra cost to the government, added to the bid price, would bring the total far above the maximum of $7,800,000 for each vessel.

Neither ship can be laid down before next summer, it is said, for lack of structural steel, the war having swept the American steel market clean. Secretary Daniels showed considerable concern over this fact. He intimated that unless some arrangement could be made with steel plants to insure preference for government orders congress might be asked to act. An embargo on exportation of steel until the government's wants are satisfied has been suggested.

Mr. Daniels is considering a plan to have the government own "every element connected with battleship building." This would mean government owned or leased iron ore fields, shipyards, armor plate factories and all else that is needed. He will again urge congress to authorize construction of a government armor plant and will also seek appropriations to fit the Philadelphia and Mare Island yards for battleship building.

CRIPPLE, 15, PRAISES DOCTOR.

"God Will Bless You" She Tells Physician Who Let Defective Die.

Dr. Henry J. Halseiden of the German American hospital of Chicago, who refused to prolong the life of the Bolinger baby, received a letter from a crippled girl of fifteen praising him for letting the defective infant die.

"Dear Dr. Halseiden," the letter read, "just a line from a little crippled girl for not letting that baby live. I know God will be good to you, for I know how it is. My experience and that of other crippled children is that our hearts always ache. We can't dance or play like other children. We are in every one's way but mother's, and her poor heart aches with ours. We are just a curiosity for people to look at."

"Why don't those ladies who are attacking you adopt a crippled child? I am tired of life at fifteen. What will become of me when mother dies?"

DISTRIBUTE 2,500,000 ACRES.

Large Tracts of Public Land to Be Opened to Settlement.

More than 2,500,000 acres of public land in California and South Dakota are to be thrown open to settlement under the enlarged homestead act, which permits an individual to occupy 320 acres.

Announcement to this effect is made by Secretary of the Interior Lane. Of this land 1,855,000 acres are situated in California. Applications for prospective settlers must be received at the local land offices by Jan. 10. The lands are non-irrigable, this being the reason for allotting twice the usual amount to any single settler.

LOAFING IS BAD BUSINESS

According to the Week's Health Talk by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon. Gives More Valuable Advice to those who Read his Letters.

Nature never forgives indolence and it is better for people to be occupied with trifles, fads, for instance, than to do nothing at all, says Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, in discussing ways to keep well. The commissioner says that the difficulty is that busy people keep pounding away along one line without taking the proper amount of exercise, while those who have nothing to do fail to carry out nature's plan.

Dr. Dixon follows out the line of reasoning in his weekly talks on hygiene and in his discussion of idleness this week says:

"It has been said that the crime which nature never forgives is indolence. It is certain that our bodies never were planned for idleness. Good health invariably is the result of a continued and rational exercising of both our bodies and minds.

"Whenever we fail to exercise them for a period of time, they are apt to degenerate. Not infrequently, owing to the close association of the various parts of the complex human machinery, this results in the impairment of one part and reflects upon the others.

"The complications of modern life are very apt to result in our being forced into a restricted sphere, to keep mind and body in good condition.

"There never has been a time when opportunities were so great for those who desire to broaden their horizon and cultivate interests, aside from those forced upon them by their particular trade or occupation. Not to have interests and occupation in a world teeming with opportunities and possibilities is to admit of stupidity and sloth.

"Fads of one sort or another may not seem worthy of comparison with the more serious employments of life; nevertheless, they may serve those who have been relieved of the necessity of labor, and in lieu of better occupation, prevent degeneration of mind and body. To be occupied with trifles is better than not to be occupied at all.

"To devote one's self to tasks which require concentration and a combined effort of mind and body stimulates a rational development and goes far toward keeping us sane and healthy."

FOR BETTER INDIANS

New Training Courses at Carlisle to Be Equal of Any.

Carlisle Indian School is to have rearranged and new courses of studies designed to give the Indians the best vocational training offered by any school system in the United States. Indian Commissioner Sells and expert instructors worked on the new school curriculum for months.

The school course will be divided into three divisions. The first is the beginning stage, the second the finishing stage and the third, the finishing stage. During the first and second periods the training in domestic and industrial activities centers around conditions essential to the improvement and proper maintenance of the home and farm. The course outlined is unique in the fact that, in addition to the regular academic subjects, boys are required to take practical courses in farming, gardening, dairying, farm carpentry, farm blacksmithing, farm engineering, farm masonry, farm painting, and shoe and harness repairing; and all girls are required to take courses in home cooking, sewing, laundering, nursing, poultry raising and kitchen gardening.

One-half of each day is given to industrial training and the other half to academic studies. All effort is directed toward training Indian boys and girls for efficient and useful lives under the conditions which they must meet after leaving school. Other objects to which this course directs special attention are health, motherhood and child welfare, civics, community meetings and extension work.

Nature Always Active.

It is known that every particle of the earth is in a state of constant activity. Nature abhors stagnation as it abhors vacuum. Even the stagnant, smelly pool of water generates myriad forms of life. Every particle of what we call a stone has a chemistry that is ever changing form. No matter how infinitesimal the infinite atoms of the combined elements of our sphere not one is in the same place today that it knew yesterday. Every hour, every moment experiences change.

Perfect Artificial Foot.

The foot of the artificial leg is in itself an exceedingly clever counterfeit. Its core is part of the same piece of wood that makes the body of the leg. Enveloping this core is rubber, vulcanized on in a series of this layers, the result being to give the foot a lively springiness, rendering it comfortable for walking and helping to give the wearer a natural gait.

GERMANS HIDE IN INVISIBLE WHITE

TO COVER GUNS WITH CLOTH

Every Preparation For the Campaign During Zero Weather Has Been Made to "Dig" Trenches With Explosives, as Ground Will Be Frozen For Depth of Six Feet When Cold Arrives.

The London Post's Petrograd correspondent gives a detailed account of the preparations the Germans are making for the winter campaign in Russia. Several new ideas have been evolved. Light metal buildings ready to be put together and provided with steam heaters are destined to afford temporary warmth even in trenches. Supplies of sleeping sacks are being procured. Provision is also being made for the delivery of enormous quantities of spirits, and strict orders are being issued that soldiers must rub themselves all over with it daily. Von Hindenburg is said to have issued an order signifying that any commander who loses a single man from frost deserves to be shot.

Hide Under White Coverings.
Among the most curious preparations is the gathering of calico, linen and holland—indeed, any light materials white in color.

Apart from collections of domestic linens throughout Germany, the whole region held by the Germans in Russia has been systematically pillaged of such material. The object is to cover uniforms, trenches and supply carts to make them invisible amid the snow.

The Germans have invented special tripod arrangements carrying a vast expanse of white material under which they hope to baffle the eyes of the enemy. Another device is intended to allow the line advancing to attack to creep up invisibly.

As the ground during the Russian winter freezes for a depth of three to six feet, trench digging becomes practically impossible under ordinary circumstances. The Germans therefore organized special boring commands, whose duty is to creep forward in the night, make a succession of borings with special instruments and insert explosives. When these are fired the soldiers will be easily able to shovel the debris away and make places which will afford them protection.

Similarly borings containing explosives are to take the place of wire entanglements in winter.

Seesaw at Czartorysk.

A dispatch to the London Chronicle from Petrograd says a terrible game of seesaw is being played in the neighborhood of Czartorysk. The Austro-Germans actually occupied the town and a small section of the left bank of the Styx last Tuesday, four hours later they were forced back. West and northwest of Czartorysk is rising ground, and from these heights the enemy artillery made unfavorable the position of the Russians at the town lying on low ground near the river. But the right bank of the Styx is high, and the Russian artillery posted there drove the enemy out.

TRENCH COOKING BY GIRLS.

Woman's College in London Gives a Special Course.

Cookery lessons in a trench dug in the grounds of the new King's College For Women (University of London, at Campden Hill) is among the features of a special course on camp cookery inaugurated at the college recently and open to nonstudents.

This course and one on "economic housekeeping in war time" will, it is thought, be specially useful to women war workers in view of the fact that the employment of women as cooks, porters, orderlies, etc., is now permitted in the military hospitals.

The practical work in the camp cookery course will be undertaken out of doors whenever possible and will include the building and making of outside fires, ovens, etc.; improvising of camp cookery implements, the jointing of meats, etc. Attention will therefore be directed to cooking in large quantities, stewing, soup-making, bread-making, and the making of boiled puddings.

COST OF RADIUM SLASHED.

Federal Bureau of Mines Lowers Rate to $37,000 a Gram.

Announcement that the United States bureau of mines has been able to produce radium for $37,000 a gram, a cut of two-thirds in the market price during the last two or three years, was made by Secretary of the Interior Lane.

The bureau has worked with the national radium institute, which was organized to study the curative properties of radium, in producing radium at the new price. Secretary Lane said that up to the present time five grams of radium have been extracted from the carnotite ores.

About half this quantity, Mr. Lane said, has been delivered to the Memorial hospital in New York and the Kelly sanitarium in Baltimore, where it will be used in the treatment of cancer.

SMUT OF WHEAT IS PREVENTABLE DISEASE

Simple Apparatus for the Formalin Treatment Consisting of Trough, Tub and Sawhorse—a, Trough; b, Tub; c, Pine Plug; d, Perforated Tin Plate. (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Wheat growers in this country not infrequently experience serious losses caused by preventable diseases. Wheat is preyed upon by a number of parasitic fungi, three of which are classed as smuts. Two of these smuts are common pests in the wheatfields of North America, the other, commonly known as flag smut, is thus far unknown to this continent, though it is fairly common in Australia and certain other parts of the world where wheat culture has been in progress for centuries, says the department of agriculture.

Of the two smuts, bunt or covered smut of wheat, sometimes referred to as stinking smut, is found wherever wheat is grown, sometimes resulting in losses to the farmers of the United States of $20,000,000 or more annually. Not infrequently fields planted to untreated seed and giving promise of yielding 30 to 40 bushels per acre of good wheat, will produce a crop of covered smut amounting, in some cases, to as much as 40 to 60 per cent of the crop.

This smut disease is caused by a parasitic fungus which attacks the growing wheat plant before the first leaf appears above ground. Once inside the attacked seedling it continues its growth and by the time the wheat begins to head the diseased plants produce a crop of smut. If we examine the heads of such a plant we find instead of normal wheat grains only a lot of smut balls. In other words, the materials produced by the living plant for the purpose of building up sound wheat grains have been consumed by the parasite in forming its masses of smut spores which finally occupy the exact position in the wheat heads that would have been filled by the kernels had they been allowed to develop. These smut balls consist of nothing but millions of spores inclosed in each case by a thin enveloping membrane. When the smut balls are crushed the spores give off an odor not unlike that of herring brine. The liberated spores become attached to the seed, which, if planted without previous treatment, may produce another crop of smutted wheat.

Treat Seed With Formalin.
Bunt or covered smut of wheat is one of the most easily prevented of any of the cereal diseases. The following procedure is recommended: Run all seed wheat through a fanning mill in order to blow out the unbroken smut balls. This being done, the grain should be soaked ten minutes in a solution consisting of one pound of commercial formalin (obtainable at nearly all drug stores) added to 40 gallons of water. The seed thus treated is next allowed to drain and is then piled on the floor and stirred frequently until sufficiently dry to sow. If, during this process, the kernels have swollen very much, the drill should be set to sow a little thicker, else the quantity sown per acre will be less than was intended.

Bunt or Stinking Smut of Wheat—Two Smutted Heads.

Rotation in Severe Cases.
Recent experiments have shown that in certain sections of the country the soil of a field producing a crop of smutted wheat this year may harbor enough smut spores to cause the appearance of smut in next year's crop if the field be reseeded to wheat. This sometimes occurs, where smut is very bad, in spite of the planting of treated seed, and shows that in such localities crop rotation should be practiced in addition to seed treatment. Bunt or covered smut of wheat attacks no

Determine Value of Cow.
To determine the value of a cow it is necessary to measure her milk flow and also to test her milk for butterfat. A cow producing 40 pounds of 3 per cent milk and one producing 20 pounds of 6 per cent milk give equal amounts of butter.

Signs of Tuberculosis.
A cow that stays thin in spite of good feed and has a cough, shows pretty sure signs of tuberculosis. Let the veterinarian test her.

PIECE OF NEGRO'S LEG BONE GRAFTED ON TO WHITE MAN

Youth Who Was Shot Gives Part Amputated to Victim of Horse's Kick.

A six inch section of a negro's leg bone was grafted on to the leg of a white man at the Cooper hospital, Camden, N. J.

This surgical feat was made possible by an unusual circumstance. The two patients were in the hospital at the same time. One was compelled to sacrifice his leg to save his life. The other, with a portion of one leg shot away, was destined to lose the leg from the knee down unless six inches of healthy bone could be obtained.

The lad whose leg was cut off is Alfred Mencken, who was accidentally shot by a gunner. The knee and two inches of the bone below were badly splintered by the shot, and the physicians amputated the member.

The next operation was to perform on John Hyde, whose leg was injured by the kick of a horse. For nearly two months the surgeons tried to save his leg and finally decided that amputation must be performed.

The amputation of the negro lad's leg, with a portion of the bone intact, suggested the possibility of grafting, and the bone in Hyde's leg, about midway between the knee and ankle, was removed.

The surgeons inserted the good bone from the negro's leg and carefully bound the flesh and tendons around it. They are of the opinion that it will graft perfectly and Hyde will be able to walk.

HAVE DUG A CHINESE WALL.

German Soldiers' Trench Excavations Equal It in Volume.

Some genius for figures with plenty of time at his disposal has estimated that the German soldiers who have had to bear the burden of trench digging since the beginning of the war have excavated a quantity of earth which in cubic feet is equivalent to the Great wall of China. He arrives at his conclusion in the following way:

The Great wall is 2,150 kilometers long, 16.5 meters high, eight meters wide at the bottom and five meters wide at the top. The German lines in April extended 650 kilometers in the west and about 1,200 kilometers in the east. Behind these foremost lines, however, extend secondary and in most cases third and fourth lines, all connected up by miles of "laufgraben," or communication trenches.

Since April the German positions have repeatedly changed, necessitating the construction of new trenches. Each trench is usually from six or seven to a dozen feet in depth and little narrower. In connection with each one are countless underground shelters. Taken all together, the estimator believes, the trench digging record of the German soldiers in fourteen months is quite on a par with the decade long record of the Chinese.

WRITES OUT RADIO MESSAGES

Automatic Pen Receiver and Recorder Successfully Demonstrated.

A device which automatically receives and records wireless messages has been tested in wireless stations at Chicago.

Messages sent from the "mosquito fleet" off the Atlantic coast were received and successfully recorded. Those present at the demonstration of the invention declared the machine is the invention of Dr. Ray E. Hall of Rock Island, Ill.

The instrument is a cylinder through which a light current of air is sent and into which the radio current passes to a delicate diaphragm. The vibrations, when transmitted to the recorder—a small dynamo, a roll of ticker tape and a pen—cause the pen to write the wireless messages.

According to the inventor, any number of wireless messages may be received at the same time over the same aerial and on the same wave length. More than 200 words a minute may be recorded, it is said.

Medical Advertising HOW TO GAIN FLESH

Remedy for the Statement of a Woman Who Was Nothing But Skin and Bones.

Laugh and grow fat is a homely saying, but Mrs. Elizabeth L. Morris, of Hammond, La., tells of a more reliable method. She says:—

"I cannot say enough in praise of Vinol, for it saved my life. I was weak, nervous, run-down, could not sleep, was unfit for work and was nothing but skin and bones. Three doctors had all failed to help me. One day I saw Vinol advertised, took courage and bought a bottle, and it soon made me feel better. I continued its use and such a change! I have regained my strength, flesh and health, am perfectly well, and the doctor was surprised to see such a change in me in such a short time." Elizabeth Morris, Hammond, La.

The reason Vinol proved such a wonderful strength creator in Mrs. Morris' case was because of the concentrate of iron, beef peptone and the extractives of fresh cod livers, with oil, combined in a pure native tonic wine, which makes Vinol a most wonderful tonic.

FARMHAND KILLS FIVE AND HIMSELF

Wipes Out Farmer's Family and Fellow Worker.

SHOT AS THEY SLEPT

Bodies of Victims Lay Four Days After Terrible Crime—Ghastly Find in Home.

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 29.—Five murders, the wiping out of a family and their farmhands, were discovered in the farmhouse of Samuel Weltzman, which lies off the Georges road about three miles outside of this city. Another farmhand, apparently the man who had killed the others, was found dead clutching a revolver.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Weltzman, who were shot as they slept; their son-in-law, David Kigner, and his wife, Beatrice, and two workmen whose names are not known.

County Physician Carroll, who went to the farmhouse with Prosecutor Florence and detectives, judged by the conditions of the bodies that they had been dead for several days, and from other circumstances the authorities have concluded that the murders took place on Wednesday evening. The discovery might have been longer postponed but for the chance meeting of a milkman who had been unable to find any one around the house with David Kigner's brother.

The Weltzman farm sets back about a quarter mile from the road on the edge of a clump of woods. There are no other houses nearby. Weltzman was fairly prosperous. He was last seen on Tuesday, when Joseph Wildgoose, one of his customers, stopped to get his milk. Wildgoose went again on Thursday, but could not find any one around the place.

Saturday he happened to meet Nathan Kigner, a brother of David, and told him that his brother's folks were apparently away. Kigner became alarmed, and with Maurice Kalpen and Voorhees Ragin, went over to the farm and tried to get in.

Ferguson forced the window of the bedroom and climbed in. David Kigner lay face up on the floor between the two beds with a bullet wound in his chin and forehead. On one of the beds was a farmhand, a Hungarian on his knees as if he had been shot down as he tried to rise. In the other bed was the other hand, a Pole crouched under the clothes, with the revolver in his hand and a wound in his right temple.

The door of this room was locked on the inside and as Ferguson opened it a dog that had been lying in a corner, came dragging itself along the floor whining and exhausted from want of food and water.

In Weltzman's bedroom he and his wife were found lying on their backs with bullet wounds in their heads. Death had come to them as they slept in the other bedroom across the hall that of Kigner and his young wife there were evidences of a terrible struggle.

Mrs. Kigner lay dead on the bed shot through the breast and head. The bedclothes were scattered about and in a wall were several bullet holes, as if many shots had been fired in an effort to kill whoever had been struggling with the murderer.

From the evidence of a bitter fight in this room and the fact that the old couple were apparently shot as they were asleep. Prosecutor Florence constructed a theory of what had happened, justified, as he said only by the conclusion that the murderer was a madman, but at the same time what seemed to him the most reasonable explanation of what had taken place.

The laborer had been with the Weltzmans for only a month. He was known as a surly fellow and Weltzman had much trouble with him.

PHEASANT STOPS SCHOOL

Wounded Bird Flies Through Glass and Drops Dead.

Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 29.—An innocent pheasant caused a holiday for the pupils of the Star school, in Franklin township, taught by Miss Edith Smith.

Miss Smith was instructing a class in arithmetic when she and the members of her school were startled by the sound of breaking glass. An instant later, a pheasant flew across the room and dropped on the floor, dead. It had broken the window glass.

The excitement was too much for the children to resume their studies. The bird had been wounded by hunters on a nearby hill.

NURSE'S STORY HALTS WEDDING

Invitations Recalled and Presents Returned.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—Invitations to the wedding of George Walker Kelley, of 128 South Fifth street, this city, and Miss Marie Clamer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Clamer, of Collegeville, Pa., have been recalled by the bride's parents because Miss Angeline Wilhelm, a nurse, of Detroit and Grand Rapids, Mich., is said to have asserted that Mr. Kelley was engaged to her.

It was said that Miss Wilhelm told the bride's father, with the result that the wedding arrangements were abruptly halted. By that time, however, scores of wedding presents had been received and arrangements practically completed for the wedding. The presents were returned.

Miss Wilhelm is twenty-eight years old and attractive. She first met Mr. Kelley when she was twenty-two, she says.

Mr. Clamer is one of the wealthiest residents in the Pottstown-Collegeville section of Montgomery county. His daughter is a graduate of Ursinus college and is noted for her charitable work among the poor in that section.

DEER SEASON IS NEAR

Will Open Next Wednesday in the State of Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 29.—Pennsylvania's deer season will open Wednesday, December 1, and the night before the season for all small game will end, so that the woods will be left free to the hunters of deer, bears and raccoons.

This is the result of changes brought about in the game laws in the last legislature and which, it is believed, will result in less danger to hunters.

The season for quail, pheasants, rabbits, wild turkey and woodcock will end with November. The deer season will run from December 1 to 15, inclusive, one deer two horns two inches above the hair being allowed each hunter. The raccoon season will run to the end of the year, but the bear season will end with the deer season.

The black bass, rock bass and muskallunge season will end with November, but the salmon season will not close until the end of the year.

NEW KIND OF MOONSHINE

Prisoners Had Plan to Make Foreign Wines and Counterfeit Labels.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29.—One of the most complete combinations of "moonshine" and counterfeiting plants ever uncovered by a local police, was revealed when five men, accused of conspiracy and forgery, were held for further hearing on December 1 to give the police and federal authorities a chance to unearth what is believed to be a gigantic plan to flood the city with imitations of high-priced Italian and French brandies and cordials.

Many wagonloads of expensive apparatus for imitating the liquors, labels and revenue stamps were piled up in the Second and Christian streets police station, while special officers scoured the downtown section to estimate the extent of the frauds.

The five men under arrest were captured in a dwelling in Brainbridge street above Front, which the police say, they had fitted up with rare ingenuity and efficiency as a laboratory, engraving and printing plant.

Arrested, Has $50,000

Baltimore, Nov. 29.—With stock in his pockets worth at par $50,000, a man who gave his name as Charles W. Galvin was arrested while trying to dispose of a diamond. He says that he is a stock broker, with offices in New York. He admitted that he was arrested in Philadelphia November 19. When arrested there he had about $30,000 worth of diamonds and was trying to dispose of them. The diamonds are being held in Philadelphia and he is out on bail.

Mile a Minute to Save Dog

Anoka, Minn., Nov. 29.—Anthony Bryson drove an automobile forty miles in forty-five minutes over frozen country roads to save his dog and cat from fire. Bryson's home on Elk river took fire while the owner and his wife were away. He was called on the telephone and the race began. Bryson arrived too late to save the home, but rescued the pets.

SLAIN BIRD LOSS $100,000,000

Quail Had 1200 Chinch Bugs In Claw When Killed, Says Shields.

Some artists could draw a funny picture showing a quail picking off a chinch bug and a callow youth thereupon picking off the quail with a shotgun, but Colonel G. G. Shields, president of the League of American Sportsmen, declares that this little performance is costing the farmers of the United States close upon $100,000,000.

Colonel Shields was addressing the Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution. He touched upon chinch bugs, Hessian flies, boll weevils and other pests that trouble the farmer.

"It takes more than 24,000 chinch bugs and nearly 50,000 Hessian flies to weigh an ounce," he said. "A quail was killed in Ohio with 1200 chinch bugs in its claw. Another killed in Kansas had 2000 Hessian flies in its claw. A quail killed in Pennsylvania had 127 potato bugs in its claw."

"These birds protect the farmer, and then an army of young men and boys goes out to shoot them. There are 10,000,000 shotguns in use, and the loss of farmers is $100,000,000 a year."

"The meadow lark, the quail and the prairie chicken are the best friends the farmer has. And the boy with the gun is his worst enemy."

PARIS LOOKS FOR A SEVERE WINTER

MILK SUPPLY GROWS SHORT

All Necessaries of Life Soar Even Before Extreme Cold Sets In—Cost of Every Article Has Been Increased About 100 Per Cent—Few Vegetables Available at Any Price.

Winter is going to be hard in Paris. Already prices have mounted so high that it is difficult for the poor to live. And if the first attack of cold weather and the consequent diminution of fresh vegetables and fruit are going to make as much difference as the tables of prices have shown the people dread thinking of a long, cold winter, which is the present scientific prediction for France.

Ordinary necessities—clothes, shoes, gloves, lingerie—have all increased in price. A suit which last year cost $30 would cost $50 this year. All the little standbys, like cotton or buttons or hooks and eyes, which one is accustomed to think of at a fixed price, have become more expensive.

Yet the stores are full. It is agony to go shopping at the Galeries Lafayette any time during the afternoon. It takes sometimes fifteen minutes to get an elevator, so thick is the crowd. People are buying furs, an article which no Parisian woman would be without, no matter what other thing she economized on. Skins have increased 50 to 80 per cent, but people seem to buy just the same.

Milk Becoming Scarce.
Milk has been increased from 8 to 10 cents a quart and in many sections of the city has been really scarce. The reason given for this is the large number of invalids in the hospital, men who formerly never touched milk, and also it is due partly to the fact that with the farmers away at the war the wives hesitate to buy new cows, and the supply is really seriously diminishing.

Fish has gone up 25 per cent, and in spite of the efforts to introduce frozen meat it is still held at the big central markets and doesn't get to the small distributing centers at all. A woman was heard complaining the other day at one of the big markets. "My basket is only half full," she said, "and my money is all gone. I've bought a dozen eggs, that's 40 cents; a pound of chops, that's 50; a cabbage for 14 and a quart of string beans for 20. Now, a year ago I could have had the eggs for 30, the meat for 28, the cabbage for 4 and the beans for 12."

"And look at cheese," she went on. "Camembert's gone at one jump from 14 to 25 cents a box, sugar from 75c to 13 cents a pound."

Coal and Soap Have Doubled.
"That isn't the worst," said another woman. "Look at coal, $17 a ton, and kitchen coal a little over double its usual price. If you make up your mind to an increase one day the next day you find it has jumped again. Even soap is doubled in price, and you can't afford olive oil any more. Simple things like carrots and dried peas and lentils are way up too."

One of the oddest places in Paris, in contrast with its former activities, is Magic City. Before the war this used to be one of the gayest, merriest amusement halls in Paris. There was every form of amusement, after the fashion of Coney Island or White City, but in addition it was the rendezvous of all dancing Paris, and its Friday evening dances were the smartest thing Paris boasted. Every one who pretended to be any one had special gowns made for the Magic City Friday evenings.

Now when you go in you see no longer scenic railways or descents to lakes, the booths are gone, the towers and everything which used to amuse Parisians. There is a small army of men and women engaged in making boots for the army. Magic City is now the center of the manufacture of soles and heels for the soldiers. The government, remembering the shameful contracting in the war of 1870, when the soles of the shoes were made of paper and a five mile tramp nearly put the soldiers' feet on the bare road, have taken entire charge of it themselves this time.

NEW U. S. ARMY CAMP.
Plattsburg Drills For Business Men to Be Duplicated at Camden, S. C.

Inspired by the success of the military encampment at Plattsburg, N. Y., last summer, Major General Leonard Wood announced recently that the government would conduct another along exactly the same lines at Camden, S. C. "This encampment," General Wood said, "will begin probably early in February. It will be for the same purpose as the one at Plattsburg, the same lines as the one held at Plattsburg. Camden was selected because the encampment was wanted in the south, and we had to select some place which was not far away from one of our army posts to march regular troops there conveniently."

General Wood said that already many applications to attend the camp had been received.

Though Different, Still the Same

By F. A. MITCHEL

Dr. T. Howard Pulsifer—be patient! His name, as well as his hair, in the middle because he was the family physician of the multimillionaires, and must do as they did—had just opened a letter containing a $1,000 check for an operation he had performed, when, looking up, or rather down, he espied a small, ragged boy with a pale, hungry face gazing wistfully at him.

"How did you get in here, sonny?" asked the doctor.

"I dodged in when de crowd was goin' out. De doorkeeper didn't see me."

It was the end of the doctor's office hours.

"Well, what can I do for you?" asked the doctor.

"Me mudder is sick."

"Where does your mother live?"

"In a tenement on Jenson street."

The doctor was putting away his $1,000 check when the small boy spoke again:

"She told me to tell yer she hain't nothin' to pay with. She can't do no washin', and she can't git no pay. She'll pay when she gets to work ag'in."

The doctor looked from his fat pocketbook to the lean boy, but said nothing. The boy was turning to go when the doctor stopped him.

With that he left the room. The boy gaped about him at the paraphernalia intended for looking at persons' insides, chopping off diseased parts, etc. Among other things was a glass case containing articles which the child could better understand. There were large pieces of silver, among which he recognized a pitcher. Another was a cup with three handles. There were also a cane with a gold handle, an urn—all gold—and many enormous jewels.

While the boy was gazing at them the door opened and the doctor returned. "What's them?" asked the boy, referring to the glittering contents of the case.

"They? They're presents from grateful patients I have helped or who have believed I have helped them, which is the same. Now we will go and see your mother."

He took the boy out to his limousine, put him in, got in himself, told the chauffeur where to go and was whirled away. When he reached the sickroom a woman lying on a bed looked at him in surprise.

"Why, Jakey?" she exclaimed. "What have you brought? I told you to go to Dr. Puffer."

"Won't I do as well?" asked the great surgeon.

"Yes, sir, but Dr. Puffer makes a business of tendin' us poor folks. He only charges 50 cents when he comes, though he makes us pay, and if we don't he makes us sweat."

"You can have as long as you like to pay me, and if you never pay I shan't feel it. Now tell me your symptoms."

Six months later the same boy appeared at Dr. Pulsifer's office. The doctor, not recognizing him, asked him how he got in. The boy replied that he had sneaked in.

"That's frank," said the doctor.

"What do you want?"

"Me mudder is well."

"Oh, your mother is well?"

"Yes, sir; she's workin' ag'in."

"Who is your mother?"

The dialogue was interrupted by the entrance of a fashionably dressed man.

"Perhaps you don't remember me, doctor," said the visitor. "I'm Alfred Charley."

"You treated my wife some time ago."

"Oh! Charley! I recollect. How is Mrs. Charley?"

A pained expression came upon the visitor's face. His wife had died under the doctor's care. The latter saw his mistake, remembered too late, and the pained expression was reflected in his own face.

"I've called to settle your bill," said the man.

"There is no bill to settle," said the doctor.

But the man insisted and left a check for $1,500. The doctor, after his visitor had gone, sat oblivious to his surroundings. He was recalled to himself by the small boy.

"Yer don't remember me mudder, do you?" said the child. "You went with me to see me mudder when I sneaked in before, and you cured her."

"Yes, I remember you now."

"Me mudder sent me to give you five pay." He poked a silver half dollar at the great man. "And I told her about what yer got from de grateful patients. She sent this to go in the case. It's me father's watch. He's dead. She cried at partin' wid it."

The watch was of silver and worth probably when new $5 or $6. The doctor took the offered article with inexpressible sadness.

"I did you a favor when I went to see your mother," he said. "Now I wish you to do me one. What's your name?"

"Jake Connolly."

Taking up a pen, the doctor indorsed the check he had just received to Jake Connolly and handed it to the boy, telling him to give it to his mother. The boy went away, and the doctor sat musing. There was a faraway look in his eye. He was thinking of the patient who had died while under his care and whose death in the multiplicity of his cases he had forgotten, and he said to himself:

"What's the difference between the upper and the lower strata of life? Poverty makes the poor a horror to their betters, and success makes the successful a horror to themselves."

Optimistic Thought.

That which is great is not always laudable, but whatever is laudable must be great.
